YO TOURS · AUDIO GUIDE

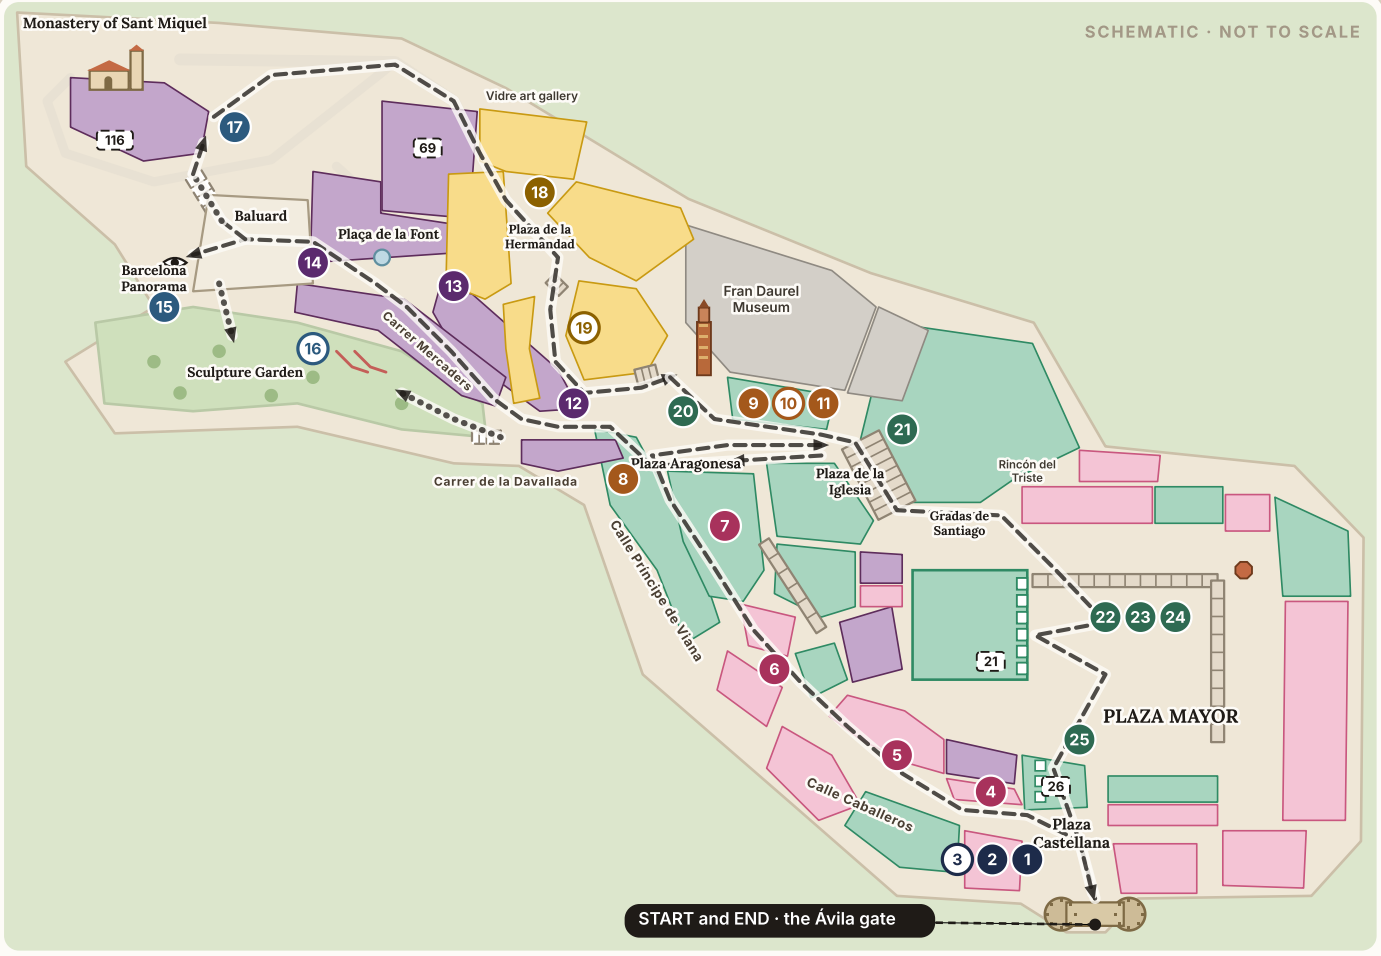

Poble Espanyol de Montjuïc

A 1929 village where every house is modelled on one somewhere in Spain: 21 main stops plus 4 short Extras in one loop, in three lengths.

1 Up the hill, then back down. From the Ávila gate up Calle Caballeros to the brick tower and through Catalonia to the monastery; down through Andalusia and the Gradas de Santiago to the Plaza Mayor.

2 Each circle is the track to play there; hollow ones are short Extras. Every track ends by telling you where to go next. Pages 2–4 zoom in.

3 House numbers and colours are the official plan's. Dotted and dashed: not yet confirmed on site. Step-free: ask for the official step-free route at the entrance.

In and up (1–7)

Play 1 and 2 in Plaza Castellana, facing the gate's two round towers. Calle Caballeros starts between houses 115 and 2 (4); play 5 walking up. It becomes Calle Príncipe de Viana at 102 and 103 (6); play 7 walking up to Plaza Aragonesa.

The Plaza Mayor (22–24)

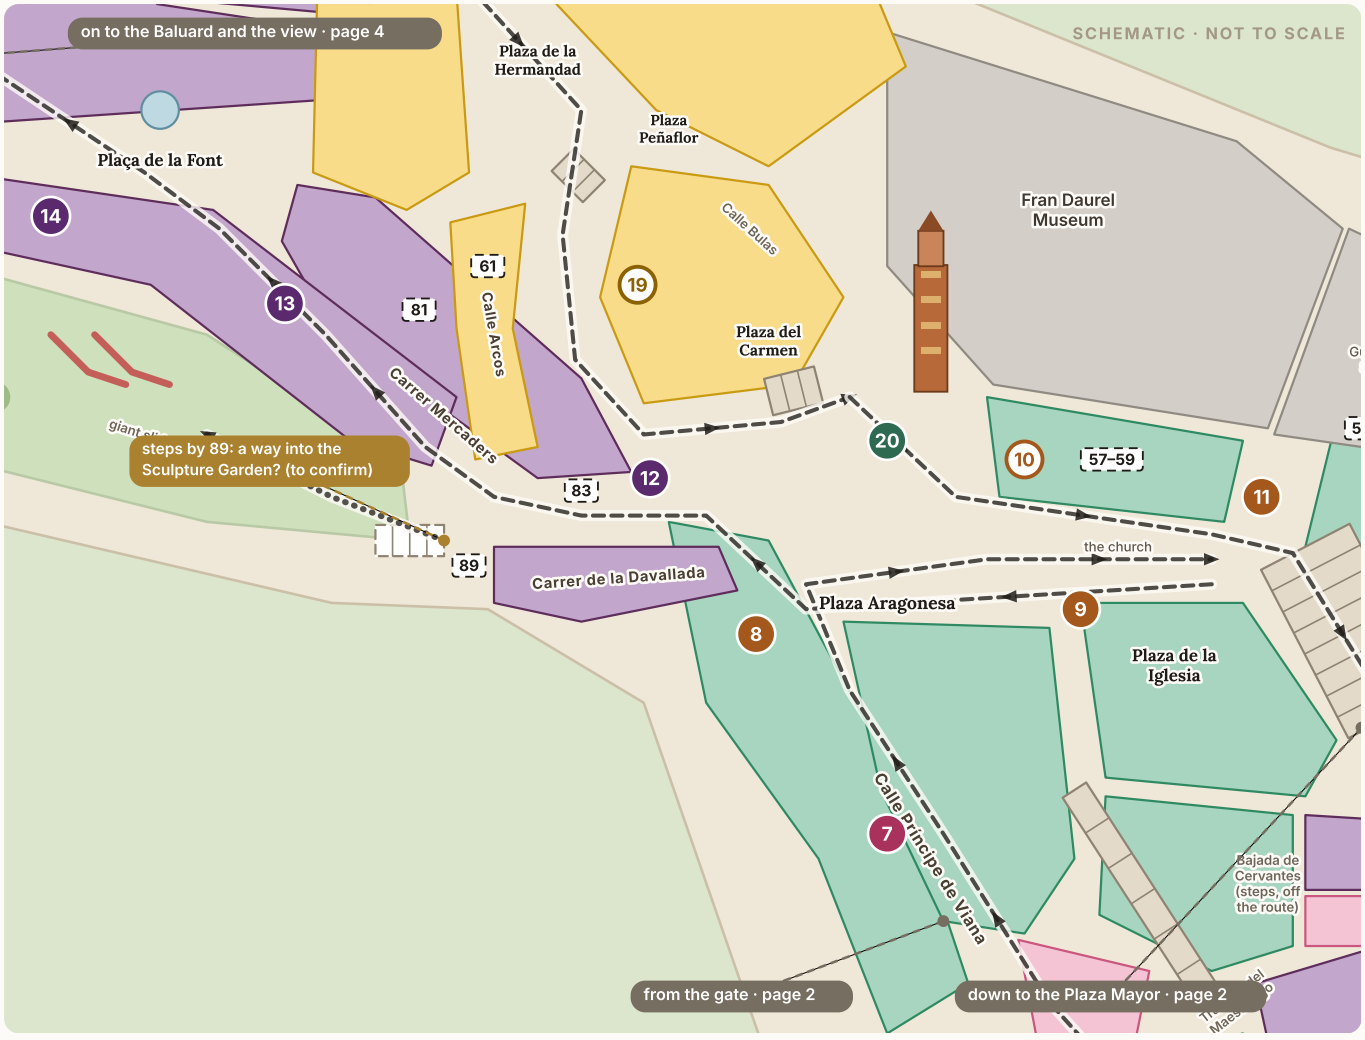

You come back down the Gradas de Santiago, past Rincón del Triste, into the square. Play 22 on its steps with the whole square in view, 23 under the arcade of the town hall, house 21 (the photographs of the building site are inside, if open), 24 sitting on the steps.

The end (25)

The last stop is by the arcade at house 26, the passage to Plaza Castellana. The way out is the Ávila gate, the way you came in. If event structures fill the square, play the square's stops at its quiet edge. Step-free: ask for the official step-free route at the entrance.

The brick tower and Catalonia · 8–14, 20

Plaza Aragonesa and the brick tower (8), the Plaza de la Iglesia with the church, FIESTA and the Fran Daurel Museum (9, Extra 10, 11), up Carrer de la Davallada to house 83 (12), Carrer Mercaders and house 81 (13), Plaça de la Font (14); later, on the way down, the Plaza del Carmen (20).

12 Carrer de la Davallada · house 83, facing the outside stair
Seven steps, not fourteen

13 Carrer Mercaders · house 81
The glassblower's house

14 Plaça de la Font · by the fountain
The Mediterranean

20 Plaza del Carmen · at the foot of the tower (play here or crossing to the Plaza de la Iglesia)
War, prisoners and a folk museum

Round the church (8–11)

Play 8 in Plaza Aragonesa with the whole brick tower in view. Walk along the church front to the Plaza de la Iglesia, the small square where a wide flight of steps goes down: 9 facing the church, Extra 10 at the FIESTA door before you go in, 11 at the Fran Daurel Museum door.

Up into Catalonia (12–14)

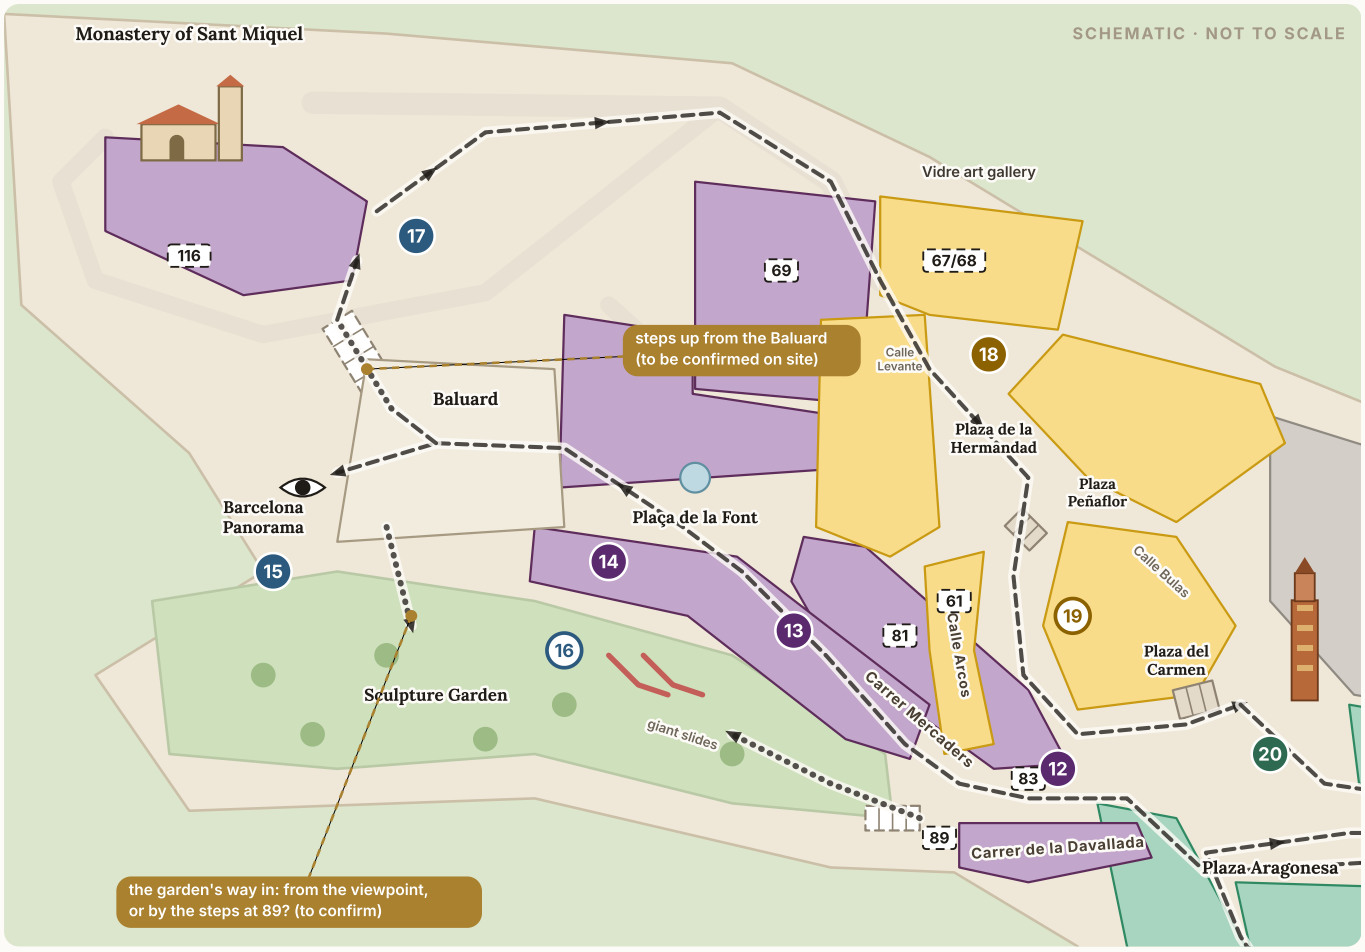

Back along the church to Plaza Aragonesa and up Carrer de la Davallada to house 83, the one with an outside stair (12). Carrer Mercaders, the street of Rupit house fronts, leads up past house 81, where a glass furnace may be at work (13), to Plaça de la Font and its fountain (14).

Back past the tower (20)

On the way down from Andalusia, Calle Arcos comes out by the brick tower, where the little Plaza del Carmen opens. Play 20 there or walking past the tower and along the church to the Plaza de la Iglesia and the top of the Gradas de Santiago.

The monastery and Andalusia · 15–21

Barcelona Panorama by the Baluard (15), the Sculpture Garden (Extra 16), the Monastery of Sant Miquel (17), down past house 69 and the Vidre art gallery to Plaza de la Hermandad (18), Calle Arcos and the Tablao de Carmen (Extra 19), then, past the tower, the top of the Gradas de Santiago (21). Highlights skips Calle Arcos and takes Calle Bulas.

The Gradas de Santiago and Rincón del Triste

15 Barcelona Panorama · by the Baluard, the city in view
Born under a dictatorship

16 Sculpture Garden · just inside
Extra Thirty-six sculptures and two slides

17 Monastery of Sant Miquel · in front of the portal
A monastery in pieces

18 Plaza de la Hermandad · white walls round you
Left out, then added for the King

19 Calle Arcos · outside the Tablao de Carmen (house 61, C. Arcos 9)
Extra The flamenco house

21 Gradas de Santiago · at the top
The North

The view and the garden (15, 16)

From Plaça de la Font, walk on past the Baluard, the terrace beside the square, to the viewpoint the plan calls Barcelona Panorama (15). Extra 16 is just inside the Sculpture Garden, below the viewpoint, where the giant slides are; it is a dead end, so come back the same way.

Up to the monastery (17)

Take the steps from the Baluard up to the Romanesque church with the square bell tower, house 116, and play 17 in front of the portal. A step-free path climbs to it round the houses at the top of Plaça de la Font. The monastery itself is not step-free.

Down through Andalusia (18–21)

The path from the monastery runs down toward house 69 and on between 69 and the Vidre art gallery into Plaza de la Hermandad, where the walls turn white (18). Extra 19: through Plaza Peñaflor and down Calle Arcos, which has steps, to the Tablao de Carmen, house 61. 21: at the top of the Gradas de Santiago; Rincón del Triste is the corner at their foot.
